Students are admitted to UCSC with a "proposed major" in most cases, and later petition to officially declare the major. Admission to UCSC does not guarantee acceptance into a particular major. Junior transfer students must be officially declared in a major by the deadline in their second quarter of enrollment.

Major: HISTORY OF ART AND VISUAL CULTURE

To declare the major, students must complete two of the required four lower-division history of art and visual culture courses (or equivalent transfer coursework), chosen from two different geographical regions. Students are eligible to declare the HAVC minor at any time. All students considering the major or minor are encouraged to complete lower-division courses early in their studies and consult with the history of art and visual culture undergraduate adviser to develop a plan of study. Students are required to meet with a HAVC faculty adviser to complete the declaration process.

- Students who have taken college-level transferable classes that may apply to the requirements of this major should contact the undergraduate adviser.
- We encourage transfer students to contact the department during the summer regarding transfer courses. Transfer credit for history of art and visual culture courses is given for up to five courses, two of which may be upper-division. Refer to the ASSIST articulation agreements at www.assist.org for approved lower-division courses.

- Transfer students should enroll in lower-division or upper-division courses that satisfy regional requirements not satisfied in their transfer courses.
- Permission codes may be required to enroll in some or all of the courses transfer students will need, and are distributed during Summer Orientation. If a student is unable to attend Summer Orientation, permission codes can be distributed to students via email.
